TABULATING THE VOTE TODAY FOR OFFICIAL ELECTION FIGURES.

J. Q. Van Swearingen's Majority Over H. L. Robinson Will Go Over 5,000 According to Unofficial Returns.

ALL THE DISTRICTS ARE NOW IN

Return Judges' Count Will Increase
Van Swearingen's Majority Over
Unofficial Figures—What County
Chairman Byrne Estimates.

UNIONTOWN, Nov. 7.—Returns from Tuesday's election have been made from all districts and the vote is now in the hands of the return judges, who will meet in the court room at 12 o'clock this afternoon to make the official count. This will take them several hours. The last missing district was received this morning about 11 o'clock.

Unofficial returns, with all districts, give Van Swearingen 10,710 and Robinson, 5,757. This is a majority of 5,023 for the judgeship nominee. All the districts give John 1,256 over Frisch for Sheriff, the vote being: Johns, 7,962; Frisch, 6,706; Purinton, two districts missing, 2,640.

Henderson ran way ahead of Warman for District Attorney, having 9,061 to 5,753, or a majority of 3,308. Martin, two districts missing, received 1,818.

Dr. H. J. Bell of Dawson met with little difficulty winning over Mersenne and Meilinger. This vote, two districts missing, is Bell, 5,849; Mersenne, 4,018; Meilinger, 2,069. James B. Hogg, in 83 of the 87 districts, received 8,821 to 5,241 for McCullough. James J. Barshart of Sunnyside ran well for Poor House Director, getting 8,790 to 4,302 for Ritchey and 2,340 for Coffman.

It is expected that there will be few changes in the official count. The State ticket ran behind that the county Sheatz getting 3,459 to 5,450 for Harman and 1,755 for Stevenson. Sheatz had 3,009 over Harman. Judge James Clark Work for Grahams' Court was on all the tickets and his vote is a good one on which the entire county vote can be estimated. In 85 of the 87 districts Judge Work received 15,130 votes.

Either the election board in Nicholson No. 1 forgot something or else they have no use for State offices down that way, for in this district no return was made of the vote for Sheatz, Harman and Stevenson. This is one of the districts carried by Robinson.

Of the 87 districts in the county, from which all have been heard, unofficially, Robinson carried 18. Those going for him were:

Gulskin Nos. 1, 2 and 3; Dunbar borough; Dunbar township No. 4; Franklin Nos. 1 and 3; Georges No. 1; Lower Tyrone No. 2; Menallen No. 2; Nicholson Nos. 1 and 2; Perry No. 2; Smithfield borough; Smithfield township No. 1; Salt Lick No. 2 and; Upper Tyrone No. 2.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon County Chairman John R. Byrne stated that Mr. Van Swearingen's majority over Robinson would be 5,367. These figures were based on returns from all of the districts in the county secured by Mr. Byrne as they were made to the Prothonotary's office. The figures given above were taken from the returns that were transcribed from the returns and errors may have crept in which made Mr. Van Swearingen's majority several hundred less than the figures given by Mr. Byrne.

There is a possibility that the Pennsylvania lines will not issue a new time card for the coming winter. So few changes are proposed that far that the officers feel that the formality of an entire new card is unnecessary.

BUCOLIC GOLD BRICK.

Farmer Brings Suit, Alleging Deception as to Maternity of Cows.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 7.—J. L. Jones, of Monongahela, Ind., entered a suit against U. G. Ames, of Bentleyville, to recover the price of cows bought from the defendant. Ames claims the cows were represented as fresh, with calves at their sides. It developed later, he asserts, that the cows were not fresh and that the calves were not their own but others used for deception.

PHONY RINGS.

Three Men Had a Bright Financial Scheme That Was Nipped in the Bud by Police.

A dicker in rings resulted in three arrests being made by Chief Rottler and Fire Chief J. W. Mitchell last evening in a local bar. A deep laid scheme was on foot to palm off 12½ cent rings for 50 cents, but it was nipped in the bud by the vigilant officers.

William Kennedy, a checkweighman of Pine Hill, Somerset county, is alleged to have been the ring leader of the ring game. He is said to have enlisted the support of John Gallagher of New Haven and Phil Younkin, better known among his friends as "Phil" of South Connellsville. Kennedy purchased several cheap rings and paid for them. That much was learned. He was in the act of turning them over to the other fellows to sell when Fire Chief Mitchell and Chief of Police Rottler took a hand.

The men were arrested before Burgess Soisson this morning and each given 45 hours for drunkenness. The ring selling case will be submitted to a further investigation.

Burgess Soisson had a busy session of police court this morning. A large number of drunks appearing before him for sentence. Michael Joseph Waische, whose home is in San Francisco, was apprehended here for beggary. He is doing some globe trotting from coast to coast, having headed for Melford, Mass. Michael Joseph will remain in the local basilic a couple of days and take a rest.

Several drunks of the ordinary variety drew 48 hour sentences each from the Burgess.

UNIONTOWN, Nov. 7.—A short session of court was held this morning during which routine matters were taken up and disposed of. In the divorce case of Hester Ross of Uniontown against William Ross, the paper was remanded to the master for further evidence. A rule was issued on J.

W. Breckinridge of Brownsville to show cause why he should not pay his wife, Ida Breckinridge, alimony mony in the divorce case of Alice B.

The position of 40 voters of Salt-

Lick township No. 1 that the ballot box of

A motion for an arrest of judge-in-the-case against P. G. Sotus, of court, was overruled. The court could see no reason why Sotus should not pay the costs. A similar ruling was made in the petition for an arrest

TIM WOODRUFF SAYS ROOSEVELT WILL BE UNABLE TO RESIST POPULAR DEMAND.

HEARST PARTY IS DEMOLISHED

Sanguine State Chairman Says Editors' Followers Will Hereafter Vote Republican Ticket—Attributes Victory in Brooklyn to Roosevelt.

TIMOTHY L. WOODRUFF.

Chairman Woodruff has been asked where he stood on the presidential situation when he replied:

"I propose to adopt a new policy—the policy of silence. But I don't mind expressing my opinion, which cannot in any way indicate where I stand on the question at this time."

"I am firmly of the opinion that the demand for the renomination of Theodore Roosevelt will be strong next spring. The president will be obliged to accept a renomination. Every indication points to his being swept into office by an overwhelming vote."

"Under the leadership of Roosevelt in the nation and of Hughes in the state, the rank and file of the Independence League will, in my judgment, vote, he said, with the Republican party."

Washington, Nov. 7.—President Roosevelt has received the following dispatch from Timothy L. Woodruff dated New York:

"Our great sweep with a straight Republican ticket in Kings county, nominally Democratic by 20,000, was accomplished by the use of a made of your unparalleled strength with the people. Some of our candidates had nearly 20,000 majority."

The following dispatch from Congress-elect John W. Langley, dated at Pikeville, Ky., was received at the White house:

"We won by 20,000. The mountain did most of it and the Roosevelt administration made it possible."

"No statement or comment on the result of the election was made by President Roosevelt."

Massachusetts Figures, Says Williams, Forecast Bryan Victory.

Boston, Nov. 7.—George Fred Williams, for 10 years leader of the Bryan forces in Massachusetts, has issued a statement on Tuesday's voting in this state. Mr. Williams was one of those Democrats who opposed Henry M. Whitney throughout the campaign. His statement in part is as follows:

"We have witnessed a most successful and spectacular political funeral; the casket was submerged and Mr. Whitney and his coterie of discarded political friends went under with it. The 'Whitney' showing of Mr. Whitney proves that the Springfield convention uttered the real sentiment of the Massachusetts Democracy. Mr. Higginson, Independence League, and Mr. Bartlett anti-merger, together polled more Democratic votes than Mr. Whitney, 57,000 to 54,000."

"At the moment when the ballot box commission outraged justice by its decision, 50,000 Democrats moved quietly out of the party into the Independence League; thousands voted for Gov. Guild. Such slaughter of official regularity has never been known in our state. For Mr. Bryan and the nation's Democratic party this vote is highly significant."

"The purpose of the Independence League is to protect radical democracy in case corporations shall encroach or defeat Bryan in convention. God speed the League in such work. It means victory in 1908, with a support behind Mr. Bryan which is not pretended but real."

FIRE FIGHT ON NEW CRUISER.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 7.—With bridge and fighting tops crowded and with nearly 1,000 enthusiastic sailors as spectators, two of the seamen of Admiral Dayton's cruiser squadron fought for the welterweight championship of the fleet on board the flagship West Virginia. Seaman Bruno of the Pennsylvania, knocking him out in the fourth round. The winner received $5 per cent of the purse, $400.

STARVING TO DEATH.

Perry Curtis, the Noted Train Robber, in New York State Prison.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The news received from Dannemora prison this week that Oliver Curtis Perry is slowly starving himself to death in that institution has revived memories of this daring and noted criminal, who 17 years ago started the entire country with the boldness of his train robbing exploits.

The crime, for which Perry is now serving practically a life sentence was the robbery of the American Express Company's special train on February 21, 1892. One car of the train was known as the money car. It was sent the specie from the United States Treasury to Western banks.

New York, Nov. 7.—Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff of the Republican State committee, who wired the president that the Republican victory in Kings county was due to Mr. Roosevelt's strength in Brooklyn, said that he believed the demand would be such that the president would be obliged to accept a renomination.

The conductor heard the roar and stopped the train. Then he looked out. Perry looked out of the express car when the train stopped, saw the conductor and shot at him. The conductor sent a brakeman back to the next station to telegraph along the line that they had a train robber on board. Then they went on to Port Byron. They stopped at the station and took care of the messenger, who was badly wounded. Perry had disappeared. At Lyons, where the next stop was made, there was a big crowd. Perry was in the crowd. He had evidently got off the further side of the train when it stood in the station.

The conductor recognized him and made a rush for him. Perry kept the crowd back with his revolver and ran across the tracks to where a coal train was standing. He uncoupled the engine and jumped into the cab and ordered the engineer and fireman to get out of sight. Then he pulled the throttle open and started at top speed. The express train's engine was uncoupled and a party started after him.

When they were about to overtake him he stopped his engine, reversed it, and started back. As he passed his pursuers, who were on another track, he fired two shots through the cab window. The pursuing engine was reversed and backed after him. Perry went ahead again. As he passed his pursuers this time he shot through the cab again. The men on the pursuing engine found they couldn't catch him and went back to Lyons. Perry found the steam giving out and abandoned the engine. He then started across country. Finally he was captured at Newark.

He was afterward convicted and sentenced to Auburn prison for a long term of years. He had served about a year and a half when he was transferred to Mattewan as incurably insane. When he had been in Mattewan about two years he and four other inmates escaped from that institution at a late hour in the night. It was several weeks before he was again recaptured and he was then transferred to Dannemora.

"Many voters could not be led to take a dispassionate view of the situation. With a longer campaign it is more than probable that the people would have become educated in this regard and a different result reached."

"Second, no man can appreciate the strength of Mayor Johnson's machine. The work of thousands of men, their positions at stake, trained to political service, and many of them with friends and relatives equally interested, is a factor strong enough to determine any election under ordinary circumstances. This machine manifested its power. No volunteer organization could equal it in efficiency. It was like a contest between regular troops and raw recruits."

"Another factor was the almost united support given Mayor Johnson by the liquor interests."

"One great advantage which lay with Mayor Johnson in this campaign, as compared with others, was the operation of lines carrying passengers at a 3-cent fare and the impression that a system would be established on which 3-cent fares would be charged and which would include the whole city."

Mayor Johnson referring to his re-election said: "Through all the confusion and slander the people kept their minds fixed upon the real issue so that today Cleveland is a free city. It was the people's fight; it is the people's victory."

"The right may lose a battle, but it never loses a war. Our seven years' war is won. Cleveland will go on with its great work. It will recognize all the law and equitable rights of the defeated monopoly, but it will reserve and preserve all the rights of all the people."

When Congressman Burton, watching the returns, finally gave it up, he left for home without a word. The fight had been lost for the first time the Cleveland Electric Railway company had actually entered politics. It is the last chance, it is conceded, for Mayor Johnson, with a council behind him, can give the 3-cent road franchise after franchise, as the old corporations expire and in a few years that company can have no line unless a compromise is reached.

Hints of a compromise have been heard. Mr. Andrew's refuses to talk of this feature, but rumor has it that he and Mayor Johnson will agree on a 3-cent bus within a few months.

Blames His Defeat in Cleveland on Johnson Machine and Liquor Interests.

GIVES 3-CENT TOM NO CREDIT

LETTER SAYS PEOPLE KEPT THEIR EYES ON THE 3-CENT FARE AND WON GREAT VICTORY—TROLLEY MONOPOLY NOW AT END OF ITS TETHER.

Cleveland, Nov. 7.—Congressman Theodore L. Burton, discussing his defeat in the mayoralty contest, said: "The victory of Mayor Johnson was due to a wide variety of causes. First, a feeling that the street railway question can be settled by the mayor in such a manner as to secure proper street car service. This, coupled with a feeling which in some quarters was bitter against corporations, especially the Cleveland Electric railway.

"Many voters could not be led to take a dispassionate view of the situation. With a longer campaign it is more than probable that the people would have become educated in this regard and a different result reached."

"Second, no man can appreciate the strength of Mayor Johnson's machine. SCHOOL OF METHODS

Ministers and Sunday School Workers Close a Two Day Meeting.

TEACHING PRIMARY CLASSES

Rev. M. A. Rigg, Formerly Pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church Here, Had a Prominent Part in the Program.

UNIONTOWN, Nov. 7.—The Fayette County School of Methods closed a very successful session of three days last night. The evening was taken up by very interesting talks by Rev. M. A. Rigg on "Teaching and Training," and Charles F. Irwin on "Aspiration Toward Better Things."

The morning session was divided up by different people teaching in the several rooms at different periods. The first hour was occupied by Miss Emma Lincoln, who taught in the primary room to the beginners' class. Rev. Carpenter occupied the hour in the junior room on the subject of "Junior Teacher as Instructor in Bible Truth," and Rev. Irwin spoke in the intermediate room to the intermediate, senior and adult teachers in map coloring.

The hour between 10 and 11 was taken up by Rev. M. A. Rigg, who in a very interesting way pointed out the different methods for teacher training. Miss Lincoln explained the equipment that should be had for the teaching of the beginners. During the same period, from 11 to 12, Mrs. Carpenter was engaged in the primary room talking on "The Exchange of Plans and Conference." From 11 to 12 Rev. Carpenter spoke in the junior room on "Junior Hand Work" and Mr. Van Ormer occupied the intermediate room explaining the ways of the adult life and the advantages of the Sunday school library in the problem's solution.

D. W. Wylie talked to the adult teachers at this period about "Organized Adult Bible Class Conference." At the first period in the afternoon, Rev. Irwin gave lessons in sand mapping to all the workers and he also occupied the second 45 minutes session by explaining the different things to be gained by blackboard, pad and map work. Rev. Rigg was engaged from 2:40 until 3:20 by showing the advantage to be gained by teacher training.

The last period of the afternoon was occupied by Miss Lincoln speaking in the beginners' room on the entertainments of the Sunday school, while Miss Porter taught "The Use of a Story" in explaining certain points which should be brought out in the lesson. Rev. Carpenter was engaged in explaining the duties of the teacher as a shepherd and Mr. Van Ormer was speaking in the intermediate room in Philadelphia.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 7.—(Special)—The Alabama Legislature, which convened in special session today pursuant to a call of Governor Conner, is expected to handle the railroad problem in a vigorous manner, though an increasing conservative sentiment in counties upon to prevent the enactment of any laws of an extra railroad nature. The object in view will be to adopt legislation that will secure better train service and more reasonable rates and to give the State power to enforce such laws. Several other matters will be brought up at the session, but the railroad problem will be by far the most important matter to be given attention.

LOVEJOY ANNIVERSARY.

One of the Early Martyrs for Cause of Abolition Remembered.

ALTON, Ill., Nov. 7.—(Special)—Today was the 70th anniversary of the tragic death here of Elijah P. Lovejoy, one of the earliest martyrs to the cause of abolition. It was on November 7, 1837, that Lovejoy was killed by an Alton mob that sacked his printing office, and he was buried two days later on the 55th anniversary of his birth.

A young man of 24, Lovejoy had come from his home in Maine to St. Louis, where he established a school and became an industrious contributor to the press, acquiring some fame as a (foref) writer. But the people of St. Louis were in such violent opposition to his views that in 1836 he came to Alton, which was to be the scene of his death.

The citizens of Alton did not take any more kindly to his preachings than the people of St. Louis. They threatened him, and when this was without result they destroyed his press. As often as they wrecked it he replaced it, until three presses had been destroyed and a fourth one was ordered.

The night after it was received a mob attacked the building. Lovejoy was there with some friends ready for the conflict, and in the fight that followed they defended themselves bravely and succeeded in killing one member of the mob. When the crowd undertook to fire the building, Lovejoy was one of the three volunteers to make a sortie. As soon as he got outside he was assailed with a storm of lead and fell dead with five bullets in his body.

An Appeal to Reason.

There isn't the slightest use in paying more than we charge for prescriptions when we give you exactly what is ordered by your physician, and give you the highest quality it is possible to obtain in drugs and chemicals used in that prescription.

You may pay more but you can't get it any better. You may pay less but you take great chances. It is no time to go hunting for a bargain when you want a prescription put up. This is not a bargain counter drug store. We charge a fair price for the best it is possible to obtain.

It pays us. It will pay you.

Good food and a good cook are not enough to produce a good meal. Much depends on the vessels in which the food is prepared. The best of pure food becomes unwholesome if prepared in a vessel that is not scrupulously clean. This is the chief difficulty with tin, iron or enameled vessels. Not only does this food burn easily, but after the vessels have been in use for some time there is always more or less disagreeable odor coming from the bottom, no matter how they are scoured and cleaned.

This difficulty becomes a positive danger to health when the enamel, which contains arsenic, antimony and lead, begins to crack and chip off. These poisons are absorbed by the foods, particularly fruits and vegetables, and often lead to chronic stomach trouble and other ailments, for which there is no apparent explanation.

For these reasons doctors, as well as teachers of domestic science, have been for years recommending the use of earthenware utensils. They are always clean, always wholesome, and subject to none of the objections which obtain against metal utensils.

You now know why you should have a set of "SANITO" Kitchen Utensils, and CLOUDS ARE LIFTED.

Threatened Trust Companies in New York Made Secure by Powerful Help.

MUST BE CAREFUL HEREAFTER

And Not Embark in Underwritings Which Are Not Capable of Prompt Conversion into Cash—Banks Send Ing Currency to Northwest.

New York, Nov. 7.—The general conditions of the financial situation are favorable. The runs on the trust companies practically ceased under the encouraging influence of the support of the trust company committee; gold engagements were further increased and the stock market rose buoyantly in recognition of these conditions.

The announcement by Mr. King, president of the Union Trust company, that an agreement had been reached by which the Trust Company of America and the Lincoln Trust company were to deposit their stock in the hands of a committee of trust company presidents and in consideration of the same to receive all the support required finally cleared the air in regard to the trust company situation.

Great apprehension existed as to the termination of the conference at Mr. Morgan's house that an agreement in regard to the two trust companies would not be reached and that they might be subjected to a run too strong for their impaired resources. Now that this danger is removed it is believed that the situation will gradually simmer down with the continuous arrival of gold until the stringency is converted into the plethora of reserve money in banks which usually follows a crisis.

More Gold Engaged.

Additional gold engagements are announced of $1,000,000 on account of Edward Freres and $600,000 for Montreal. This brings up the total gold engagement for America on the recent movement to $37,500,000, which would afford the amount required for legal reserve against deposits of $15,000,000.

While there is still some apprehension regarding the possible effort of the Bank of England to check the outflow of gold from London by raising its discount rate there is a strong feeling among conservative financiers here that the directors of the Bank of England will be very reluctant to fix a rate of discount which has not been touched since 1873. It might have been found necessary to overcome this reluctance if the Bank of France had not so generously dipped into its immense reserves, under the enlightened policy of Gov. Fallain, by the purchase of sterling bills to the amount of 3,000,000 pounds to relieve the London market.

The strength of the stock market was the reflex of improved feeling throughout the financial community. It is believed that the stock market has pretty well discounted the worst and that prices are now likely to go much lower, even in case of new disturbances.

Check on Speculation.

It is understood that the arrangement by which the committee of trust company presidents takes control of the majority stock of the Trust Company of America and the Lincoln Trust company is only a temporary device to reestablish confidence. What will be the ultimate disposition of this stock has not yet been seriously considered, but it is certain that the trust company committee and the clearing house committee will insist that these companies pursue in future a policy of the strictest conservatism and shall not embark in any underwritings which are not capable of being converted readily into cash.

Now that the monetary strain has been lessened locally the New York banks began preparations to ship all available currency to the northwest to aid the movement of crops. The Chase National and the First National have commenced to ship daily sums ranging from $25,000 to $50,000 to banks along the route of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads. James J. Hill held a conference here with officers of the Chase National bank and other institutions, at which it is stated, he asked that the northwest be given all possible assistance to move the crops. Mr. Hill was informed that while the local banks could not furnish the usual amount of money for crop-moving purposes they were anxious to do all they could.

GREAT STRIKE AVERTED

British Railway Workmen Win Concessions From Employers.

London, Nov. 7.—The anticipated railroad strike throughout Great Britain, the idea of which caused so much concern to the British public, has been averted by an agreement drafted by David Lloyd-George, president of the board of trade, and duly signed last evening by the chairman of the principal railroad companies and representatives of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants.

The agreement provides for the consideration of further matters in dispute primarily by a sectional board of conciliation representing the various grades of employees and the individual railroads. In case of disagreement settlement will be reached by the board of conciliation and an equal number of men representing the full membership of the society. If the board and those representatives fail to reach a decision the matter then must be settled by arbitration.

The directors of the railroads thus bind themselves to compulsory outside intervention in disputes with their employees. The board will in every case be composed of elected employees of the companies concerned, as well as officials of the various railroads.

YEARS OF SUFFERING THEN ROBUST HEALTH.

Great Remedy Cured Skin Disease of Long Standing.

Mr. J. Weber, of 1965 Vino street, San Jose, Cal., writes an interesting story of terrible skin suffering which ended in robust health when he found a remedy which cured him like magic. Here is Mr. Weber's own story:

"In July, 1900, my face began to be affected with a terrible skin disease. I went to a doctor and he told me that I had been poisoned and he wanted to operate on me. I refused to let him do so and after a few months my face was an awful sight. You could see it was discolored to the bone. Some people claimed that I had cancer. Great boils would appear, increasing in size and paining me terribly. I began to doctor again but no one could help me. Large pimples and boils would continue to come. At that time I had as many as ten or my face. I was such a terrible sight that my friends could not bear to see me. I doctored for five years until my funds gave out and I had to stop. During this time I tried over 300 remedies.

"One day I happened to hear of D. D. D. Prescription and learned that it had cured several bad cases of Eczema. I purchased a bottle and then got a second bottle. The use of five bottles cured me. It had been eight months now and the disease has not returned. My friends asked me what it was that cured me of the awful skin trouble and I answered that it was D. D. D. which healed me."

We know that every word of the above letter is absolutely true. We keep D. D. D. Prescription, the great remedy for eczema, psoriasis, salt rheum, dandruff, etc., because all the cures it has made appear to be lasting. Come in and talk to us about this remedy. J. C. Moore, druggist.

His Courtship

By HELEN R. MARTIN.
Author of "Tillie: A Mennonite Maid."

COPYRIGHT, 1907, BY MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & COMPANY.

As she turned halfway from him to a chair in the bay window he awkwardly sat down on the davenport beside Daisy. To relieve the situation, at least for the sake of her own feelings and Mr. Gateshead's, Daisy chattered vivaciously, but she met with a discouraging lack of response, for Mr. Gateshead was crushed and Georgiana quite unable to force an interest in anything but the theme which just now absorbed her highest contemplation.

The announcement of another guest was very welcome to Daisy. "The name 'Dr. Klinross'" sent a thrill of expectancy through the two feminine hearts in the room; but it gave to the lonesome man on the davenport a sharp pang of jealous apprehension, for Dr. Klinross' popularity with girls and women was so notorious as to be a source of mortification to himself.

It was still early, and President Ellery had not yet come into the parlor, so Mr. Gateshead had to perform the ceremony of introduction. Dr. Klinross' evening dress bore very slight resemblance to a first glance to Peter the farmhand. Miss Ellery came forward across the door, holding out her beautiful hand, and met him in the middle of the room. Tall as she was, he stood head and shoulders above her as he clasped her offered hand. His face was quite grave as their hands and glances met.

Mr. Gateshead, looking on as the two girls greeted Klinross, felt something electric in the air, something strange in the expectant, tentative look of Dr. Klinross' eyes upon Georgiana's upturned face.

"We have heard a great deal about Dr. Klinross," Georgiana said, with gracious condescension, speaking like a royal personage in the plural. "His fame followed us even into our rural retreat this summer to a Pennsylvania Dutch farm, our letters from home discussing him as if—" She stopped short, her eyes fixed upon his face, her self consciousness suddenly dropping from her like a cloak.

"Was it only his fame which followed you?" Klinross spoke. "Or was it you who followed him? I think he was there first, wasn't he?"

Georgiana stood transfixed, her eyes growing wider and wider with wonder and amazement. The shock of recognition had startled her out of herself, and for the first time in his acquaintance with her, Klinross saw her before him unaffected, natural, herself, and for the first time her face in its freedom from self-consciousness seemed to him unusually beautiful. As for Daisy, she forgot herself so far as to grip Gateshead by the arm to keep herself from tottering.

"Yes," acknowledged Klinross in an apologetic tone, replying to Georgiana's speechless stare. "You're right. I'm Pete. Reproach me as much as you want—I deserve a rebuffing, I know." "But," she breathed, "how can you be? What—what are you?" "Gracious!" gasped Daisy. "Good gracious!"

"So many things," gulped Georgiana, her face colorless, "come to my mind to confirm it—that you are Pete—I mean that Pete was you!"

"Oh," cried Daisy, staring wildly, "Georgiana and I called you Pete all summer! You!"

"That's my classic name."

"And all the while you were Dr. Klinross," breathed Georgiana.

"And I read 'The Story of the Great Back-Bound Family'! Oh!" shrieked Daisy hysterically.

"And didn't that make a shining success as farmhand, did you?"

"I can't grasp it!" half whispered Georgiana.

"It will come to you gradually no doubt," he consoled her.

"That we were under the same roof with you for four weeks and never dreamed of it—of who you were," she amended her remark. "How did you manage it?"

"It wasn't very difficult," he answered, not intending an aspersion on their intelligence.

"I never dreamed of suspecting anything. How could I?" she said, looking dazed, "when you used bad English and washed at the pump, though I remember you always had a separate towel; but you ate with your knife?"

"One can rise superior to a mere prejudice like a fork, Miss Ellery, in a good cause."

"Miss Ellery? Why don't you call her George? She calls you 'Pete,'" madly suggested Daisy.

Georgiana, flushing, glanced haughtily at Daisy. "A good cause?" she quickly repeated. "That's just the point. What was the cause? Why did you deserve us?"

"It's up to you, Peter, to explain satisfactorily your gay deception," said Daisy. "If you aren't the limit! Of all the foxes I ever heard of! Didn't I always say there was something sly about you? I did! Well, talk it out with Georgie, and I'll receive your apologies—inter—alone in the conservatory. Come, Mr. Gateshead, we'll leave them alone in this sacred moment of their coming to an understanding. Let's console each other."

She drew him away, scurriedly headed by Georgiana, though Klinross' glance followed them for an instant.

He laughed as his eyes returned to Georgiana's fixed gaze. "She's a jolly little fellow, isn't she? I mean Daisy," he exclaimed as Georgiana looked blank. "Shall we sit down and talk took advantage of her momentary leisure to invite him to her father's study, where they could be by themselves to finish their talk.

He found himself eager to tell her all the wonderful story of Bonice, and no sooner were they alone than he began to relate it. To his surprise, he had a hard time to get her attention upon it, so busy was she upon talking of herself, upon learning what his impressions of her had been during those four weeks at the farm, and upon drinking in the admiration which evidently she was sure he had inspired all unconsciously. If he led the talk away from these themes, her answers were vague and her countenance absent. There was nothing in the world so interesting to her as herself, and she was too self absorbed to see or feel the mental attitude of another to sense when she was being treasured. In short, like all egotists, she lacked tact.

But Klinross politely persisted and at last succeeded in holding her attention upon his story long enough to excite her mild interest. She was very much surprised of course. She expressed, in conventional terms some good wishes for the fortunate girl, moralized a bit about the situation, and then returned to the more important subject of herself.

When, after a half hour that had been all too short to satisfy Georgiana, they were obliged to come forth from their retreat in Dr. Ellery's study, her face was so beaming that Gateshead, when he saw her, was in despair, and as she moved through the room, her girl friends all decided that Klinross had certainly proposed on sight.

PLAN TO HONOR A BOTTLE.

Bridal Couple Will Place Glass Cupid Under Their Home's Cornerstone.

With elaborate ceremonies the bottle which brought about the acquaintance and marriage of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Petreault of Bourbons, Ill., will be placed under the cornerstone of their home. All of the inhabitants of the town will attend the cornerstone laying, says a Kankakee special dispatch to the Chicago Tribune.

Mrs. Petreault, who was Miss Mamie Fish of Chicago, placed her name on a piece of paper, enclosed it in a bottle and tossed it into the Kankakee river at Browners Grove while she was attending a picnic there. Two months later Mr. Petreault picked the bottle out of an eddy where it had been washed up. Out of curiosity he opened it, read the inscription and began corresponding with the writer of the message.

More letters followed, and finally Miss Fish accepted his plans. They were married a little over a month ago and left for a wedding journey. The final ceremony of their romance, that of placing the cornerstone, has been delayed because of the railroad strike at Kankakee, but will be held some time in the near future.

ZEBRA SUITS THE GO.

Green and Black Stripes to Be Fashionable For Men.

Zebra stripes are to be the fashion for men's suits the coming winter, according to the Tailor and Cutter, the recognized English authority in matters of masculine dress.

Broadway, New York, as a consequence is to be abuzz with purple, pink, blue, brown and green. One Broadway fitter after showing rolls of candy combinations picked out one and said:

"Here's something—two bright purple and a brown and a pink stripe running through it—that makes up into a suit."

Then he dragged out another.

"Here's a pretty olive," he went on. "See the light blue the down and across? English tweed, just like what King Eddie wears."

Out came another, and he said:

"This is the zebra stripe—al green and black stripes down. That's how it gets the name. Guaranteed to make the stoutest man look like a slim zebra."

Out came another, and he said:

"This is the zebra stripe—al green and black stripes down. That's how it gets the name. Guaranteed to make the stoutest man look like a slim zebra."

Women, the fitter said, will have to take a back seat in the matter of gay colors.

Canal Under Mountains.

A report recently reached the state department of what is declared to be the greatest engineering work of the kind yet attempted on the European continent, says a Washington dispatch to the Chicago Record-Herald. It is to be a canal under the Rive mountains to connect the port of Marseille more directly with the river Rhone. Cousserat, Clerk M. B. Kirk of Paris reports that the minister of public works in France and the counsel general of bridges have recently approved the expenditure of over $15,000,000 for the construction of the tunnel, which is to be four and a half miles long, thirty-three feet wide and forty-three feet above the water level to the vaulted roof. It will be completely lighted by electricity and will possess a small railroad running along its side.

"On the whole, you behaved very well, Miss Ellery."

"She looked so complacently sure of it that he could not help adding, "It remains now for us to discover whether or not we are on the same line of march, whether we are at 'one' and can 'clasp hands'."

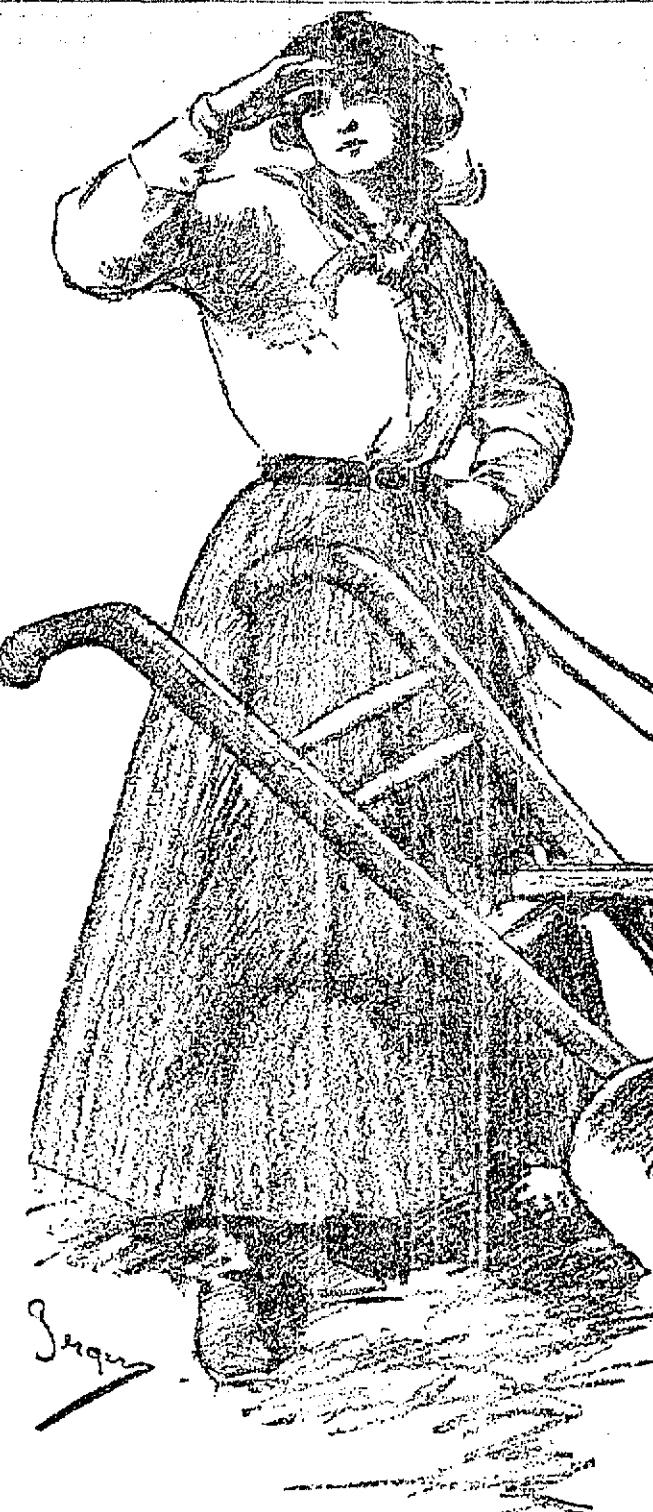

She was not in the least discomposed by the illusion. The bright color in her face was manifestly a glow of delight.

"You must necessarily be far in advance of me," she answered. "You know me as I do not as yet know you, but give me time, and I will catch up with you, and it is my belief that we shall find each other and meet very likely."

"Hear me, forfend!" was his mental comment as they both rose now upon the entrance of the venerable president.

Other guests began to arrive, and Klinross was obliged to leave her to her duties as hostess. He found Daisy and took her out to the campus for a stroll.

It was not until the supper hour gave Georgiana her first bit of respite from her obligations that he again found himself alone with her. She

The Plow Woman

BY ELEANOR GATES

In this tale of North Dakota at the time immediately following the Custer massacre we have one to stir the blood of the most jaded novel reader.

The Plow Woman plowed because she must and lost none of her womanly sweetness in doing so. Threatened by hostile Indians and more dangerous enemies of her own race who sought to oust her with her sister and helpless father from their quarter-section, she becomes a heroine characteristically American and possible only in America.
